Hi Aaron:

The boundaries for the Zoo Interchange project are contained in statutes. DOT is requesting an amendment to change the boundaries for this large project. I'll fax a map that illustrates the current statutory boundaries and requested new project boundaries. Thank you!

Department of Transportation
2009-11 Biennial Budget Request
STATUTORY MODIFICATIONS

DIN NUMBER:

TOPIC: Zoo Interchange – Change of Project Boundaries

DESCRIPTION OF CHANGE:

The Department requests the boundaries for the project be modified to allow for the evaluation of options that more fully address safety and traffic issues in the interchange.

Currently, s. 84.014(5m) (ag) 2 Wis. Stats., defines the Zoo Interchange as all freeways including related interchange ramps, roadways, and shoulders, and all adjacent frontage roads and collector road systems, encompassing I 94, I 894, and USH 45 in Milwaukee County within the area bordered by I894/USH45 at the Union Pacific railroad underpass near Burnham Street in Milwaukee County to the south, I 94 at 76th Street to the east, I 94 at 116th Street to the west, and USH 45 at Center Street to the north.

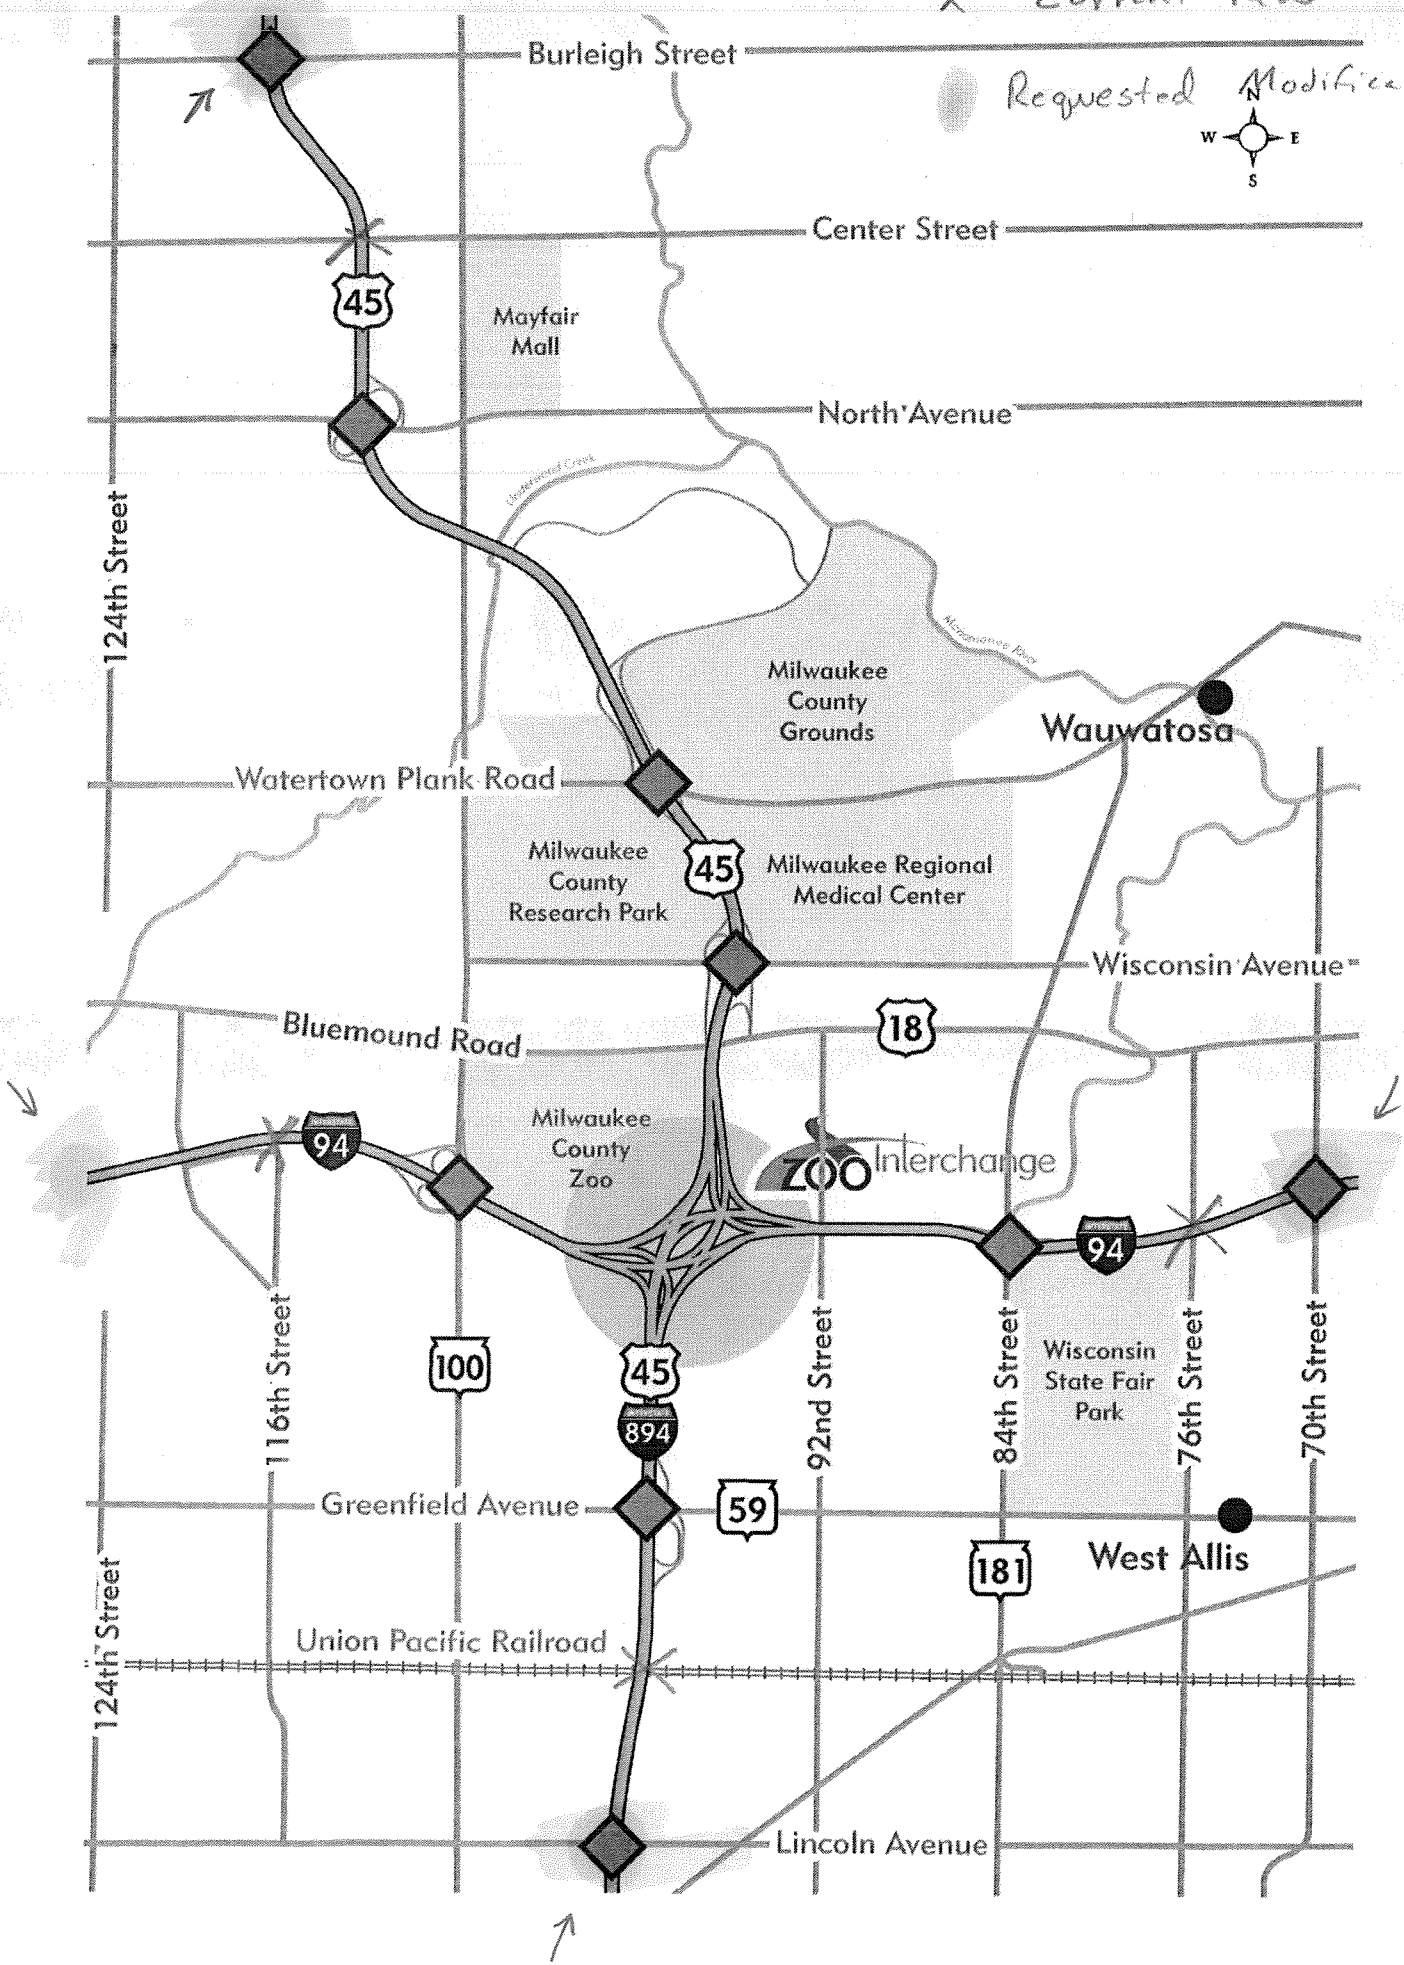

Amend s. 84.014(5m) (ag) 2 Wis. Stats., to redefine the Zoo Interchange as all freeways including related interchange ramps, roadways, and shoulders, and all adjacent frontage roads and collector road systems, encompassing I 94, I 894 and USH 45 in Milwaukee County within the area bordered by I894/USH45 at Lincoln Ave to the south, I 94 at 70th Street to the east, I 94 at 124th Street to the west, and USH 45 at Burleigh Street to the north.

JUSTIFICATION:

2007 Wisconsin Act 20 established the current project boundaries for the Zoo Interchange project. The slight change in the project boundaries, approximately .5 miles in each direction, is necessary to allow for consideration of options that fully address safety and traffic concerns in the interchange. The new boundaries would allow for more efficient configuration of auxiliary lanes and safer merging movements for traffic.

HIGHWAYS

Under current law, DOT generally may not expend moneys, other than bonding proceeds, for any southeast Wisconsin freeway rehabilitation project involving adding lanes five miles or more in length to an existing freeway unless the project is authorized by the legislature through statutory enumeration. Reconstruction of the Zoo interchange in Milwaukee County is an enumerated project and the boundaries of this project are specified by statute.

This bill expands the boundaries of the Zoo interchange reconstruction project.

For further information see the state fiscal estimate, which will be printed as an appendix to this bill.

The people of the state of Wisconsin, represented in senate and assembly, do enact as follows:
